

Lion Brewery Project Century

Project: Project Century

Client: Mainzeal

Location: East Tamaki, South Auckland

Lion Nathan's new brewing complex at East Tamaki is one of New Zealand's largest construction sites (known as "Project Century").

Electrix was initially awarded the contract to provide the HV reticulation around the site. This was a large project with one kilometer of high voltage cabling, eight transformers, three ring main units and five main switchboards and is now providing the backbone for the site.

The main contractor Mainzeal subsequently also secured Electrix for the remaining electrical installations and low-voltage work.

The 20-strong Electrix team under the project management of Doug McRobbie and Phil Cadman have been working on this complex installation for 18 months. Electrix are also working closely with Kronos AG of Germany to install the electrical and pneumatic controls of the brewing process system.

Construction will be completed in early 2011.
